

IF WE ONLY DO 2 THINGS...

HAVE GREAT CONTENT

CLUB LEADERS FEEL SUPPORTED

WORKSHOPS

- Workshops need to be something we can confidently recommend to club leaders
- Workshops should cover many different topics, & people should feel like they're growing as programmers
- We should have enough workshops to last years for club leaders

???

- Workshops aren't enough
- no matter how good workshops are, meetings will eventually feel stale if leaders only run workshops
- We need to either provide different content to club leaders ourselves or make it super easy for them to do it themselves

An idea for a club activity. Use browser dev tools to get information. Scavenger hunt?

When you browse Instagram and find former Australian Prime Minister Tony Abbott's passport number mango.pdf.zone

- Should be on the phone with club leaders super often. At least one every day
- this email update
- Share work and thinking publicly
- ship things for club leaders very often
- invest heavily in superleaders
- bring back all-hands, but make it good this time
- every club leader should have some sort of connection with the clubs team, and should feel comfortable sharing honest ideas/feedback and ask for help
- reduce number of club leaders who don't communicate with HQ and then disappear by as much as possible